All parents need time away from their children due to work schedules, events related to other family members or simply to maintain a healthy and fulfilling lifestyle. It can be challenging to find a respite provider you trust to care for your loved one and help ensure their special considerations are being met. You will need to navigate the financial requirements of respite care, create work schedules and set rules and expectations for your provider to follow. With some knowledge and understanding of the variables, working with a respite provider can be a successful and rewarding experience for your entire family. This information session will assist you in developing a process to find the right person.
