About CARF

CARF is an independent, non-profit accreditor of health and human services, enhancing the lives of persons served worldwide.

The accreditation process applies CARF's internationally recognized standards during a site survey conducted by peer surveyors. Accreditation, however, is an ongoing process that distinguishes a provider's service delivery and signals to the public that the provider is committed to continuous performance improvement, responsive to feedback, and accountable to the community and its other stakeholders.

CARF accreditation promotes providers' demonstration of value and Quality Across the Lifespan® of millions of persons served through application of rigorous organizational and program standards organized around the ASPIRE to Excellence® continuous quality improvement framework. CARF accreditation has been the recognized benchmark of quality health and human services for more than 50 years.

Expiration: May 31, 2029

Executive Summary

This report contains the findings of CARF's site survey of Community Living Kingston and District conducted April 22, 2026–April 24, 2026. This report includes the following information:

- Documentation of the accreditation decision and the basis for the decision as determined by CARF's consideration of the survey findings.
- Identification of the specific program(s)/service(s) and location(s) to which this accreditation decision applies.
- Identification of the CARF surveyor(s) who conducted the survey and an overview of the CARF survey process and how conformance to the standards was determined.
- Feedback on the organization's strengths and recognition of any areas where the organization demonstrated exemplary conformance to the standards.
- Documentation of the specific sections of the CARF standards that were applied on the survey.
- Recommendations for improvement in any areas where the organization did not meet the minimum requirements to demonstrate full conformance to the standards.
- Any consultative suggestions documented by the surveyor(s) to help the organization improve its program(s)/service(s) and business operations.

Accreditation Decision

On balance, Community Living Kingston and District demonstrated substantial conformance to the standards. Community Living Kingston and District (CLKD) has been providing programs and services for almost 75 years to persons with intellectual disabilities. Persons served, their families, and other stakeholders reported high levels of satisfaction with the services provided. CLKD is well respected in the area and actively seeks input from the persons served and other stakeholders. The tenure of employees is testament to the effort that the organization makes to ensure a rewarding, collaborative, and healthy workplace. Opportunities for improvement include the areas of health and safety and performance measurement and management.

Community Living Kingston and District appears likely to maintain and/or improve its current method of operation and demonstrates a commitment to ongoing quality improvement. Community Living Kingston and District is required to submit a post-survey Quality Improvement Plan (QIP) to CARF that addresses all recommendations identified in this report.

Community Living Kingston and District has earned a Three-Year Accreditation. The leadership team and staff are complimented and congratulated for this achievement. In order to maintain this accreditation, throughout the term of accreditation, the organization is required to:

- Submit annual reporting documents and other required information to CARF, as detailed in the Accreditation Policies and Procedures section in the standards manual.
- Maintain ongoing conformance to CARF's standards, satisfy all accreditation conditions, and comply with all accreditation policies and procedures, as they are published and made effective by CARF.

Survey Details

Survey Participants

The survey of Community Living Kingston and District was conducted by the following CARF surveyor(s):

- Camille Lagueux, Administrative
- James (Jamie) Murphy, MA, Program
- Sara Case, MS, Program

CARF considers the involvement of persons served to be vital to the survey process. As part of the accreditation survey for all organizations, CARF surveyors interact with and conduct direct, confidential interviews with consenting current and former persons served in the program(s)/service(s) for which the organization is seeking accreditation. In addition, as applicable and available, interviews may be conducted with family members and/or representatives of the persons served such as guardians, advocates, or members of their support system.

Interviews are also conducted with individuals associated with the organization, as applicable, which may include:

- The organization's leadership, such as board members, executives, owners, and managers.
- Business unit resources, such as finance and human resources.
- Personnel who serve and directly interact with persons served in the program(s)/service(s) for which the organization is seeking accreditation.
- Other stakeholders, such as referral sources, payers, insurers, and fiscal intermediaries.
- Community constituents and governmental representatives.

Survey Activities

Achieving CARF accreditation involves demonstrating conformance to the applicable CARF standards, evidenced through observable practices, verifiable results over time, and comprehensive supporting documentation. The survey of Community Living Kingston and District and its program(s)/service(s) consisted of the following activities:

- Confidential interviews and direct interactions, as outlined in the previous section.
- Direct observation of the organization's operations and service delivery practices.
- Observation of the organization's location(s) where services are delivered.
- Review of organizational documents, which may include policies; plans; written procedures; promotional materials; governing documents, such as articles of incorporation and bylaws; financial statements; and other documents necessary to determine conformance to standards.
- Review of documents related to program/service design, delivery, outcomes, and improvement, such as program descriptions, records of services provided, documentation of reviews of program resources and services conducted, and program evaluations.
- Review of records of current and former persons served.

Program(s)/Service(s) Surveyed

The survey addressed by this report is specific to the following program(s)/service(s):

- Community Housing
- Community Integration
- Family Services
- Host Family/Shared Living Services
- Respite Services
- Services Coordination
- Supported Living
- Governance Standards Applied

A list of the organization's accredited program(s)/service(s) by location is included at the end of this report.

Representations and Constraints

The accreditation decision and survey findings contained in this report are based on an on-balance consideration of the information obtained by the surveyor(s) during the site survey. Any information that was unavailable, not presented, or outside the scope of the survey was not considered and, had it been considered, may have affected the contents of this report. If at any time CARF subsequently learns or has reason to believe that the organization did not participate in the accreditation process in good faith or that any information presented was not accurate, truthful, or complete, CARF may modify the accreditation decision, up to and including revocation of accreditation.

Survey Findings

This report provides a summary of the organization's strengths and identifies the sections of the CARF standards that were applied on the survey and the findings in each area. In conjunction with its evaluation of conformance to the specific program/service standards, CARF assessed conformance to its business practice standards, referred to as Section 1. ASPIRE to Excellence, which are designed to support the delivery of the program(s)/service(s) within a sound business operating framework to promote long-term success.

The specific standards applied from each section vary based on a variety of factors, including, but not limited to, the scope(s) of the program(s)/service(s), population(s) served, location(s), methods of service delivery, and survey type. Information about the specific standards applied on each survey is included in the standards manual and other instructions that may be provided by CARF.

Areas of Strength

CARF found that Community Living Kingston and District demonstrated the following strengths:

- CLKD has been an important resource in the Kingston area for almost 75 years. The organization offers a wide range of services and resources to individuals and families, and it has a history of researching needs and bringing people together to develop programs that improve the quality of life for persons living with intellectual disabilities. The personnel that work at CLKD are committed to the organization's belief that "a complete community includes all its members."
- CLKD has very recently experienced a change of leadership after the former executive director retired after being in the position for over 30 years. A well-executed succession plan led by the board of directors resulted in a smooth, year-long transition as the new executive director was hired from within the organization. The organization is complimented for promoting from within whenever possible, which is the direct result of intentional talent search and development of its employees. The longevity of the management team members is a testament to this initiative, with the great majority of the team having worked in various positions at CLKD before assuming their management roles.
- The organization has developed a comprehensive week-long training program for new hires that ensures that potential employees are realistically prepared for the work they will be doing at CLKD. Unlike the "traditional" model of a one-day orientation and shadowing, new hires undergo extensive training that includes all aspects of the work they will be doing. Particularly noteworthy is driver training that everyone takes that includes the experience of being in a wheelchair in a vehicle while someone else is driving. This unique and powerful training ensures that drivers know how persons served feel when being transported and builds sensitivity for the needs of persons served.
- A competent board of directors supports the leadership team. Much like the leadership team, board members embrace the mission, values, and vision of the organization and have served in their roles for many years. The majority of board members bring lived experience to the board. They also provide skills and experience in many areas that support the operations of CLKD. Governing policies and clearly defined roles and duties separate oversight and operational processes of the organization.
- CLKD has a positive presence in Kingston and has earned a well-deserved reputation for providing quality services, identifying community needs, and developing partnerships. One stakeholder described CLKD as a trusted and experienced service provider. CLKD believes that the "right mix and combination of expertise is grounded in the values of the organization" and follows the philosophy of "what can we do better?"
- A strong commitment to staff member appreciation, recognition, and listening is apparent and has resulted in positive working relationships at all levels of the organization. A staff wellness committee, events for recognition, and unique initiatives ensure a healthy and safe work environment for all. Other notable initiatives include Guarding Minds at Work, which helps assess and address workplace psychological health and safety, and regular open houses called "CLKD Connects," where all staff members from the different divisions, including management departments (such as finance and human resources), are available to answer questions about the work they do. The organization also hired a consultant to respond to scheduling concerns and to assist with alternatives.
- CLKD does a great job working with the persons served to develop individualized person-centred plans. The information is provided in a slideshow presentation, integrating the interests of the person served into the document. Persons served were consistently able to identify the goals that they are working on and their rights. It is clear that there is significant effort put into ensuring that the structure and support provided is what is needed for the persons served to be successful and directing their services.

- Stakeholders were overwhelmingly positive about the services that CLKD provides. Some of the strengths discussed included the use of technology, good communication, pairing of staff members with persons served, resolution of issues on a timely basis, and a proactive approach to services in general. Stakeholders stated that they could not identify an area where CLKD could improve, and they were very happy with the staff members, supports, and leadership of the programs.
- Community inclusion programs are well equipped to meet the needs of participant. They are bright and open and have a variety of space for privacy, sensory, and group activity needs. The programs provide a variety of on-site groups catered to the community activities that the participants want to engage in. For example, the Revved Up program with the kinesiology department at a local university allows participants to receive physical therapy, exercise routines, and other assessments while utilizing exercise equipment on campus.
- The supported independent living (SIL) and community services programs adapt their approaches and styles to the persons served. They provide flexible hours of service and are good role models and advocates for the participants. It was evident that excellent connections are made and that there is a high level of trust in those working relationships. Providers were very complimentary of the program and the support provided. There is a creative approach taken to addressing concerns, including empowering participants to give feedback, which was promptly acted upon specifically in addressing rights and ensuring that rights are understood and that communication styles are respected.
- The Turning Point inclusive living program is a unique program that supports young adults transitioning into and out of different levels of support. The connections that the staff members have with other local organizations dealing with addiction and recovery, along with supporting the unhoused population, is noteworthy. The program staff members work together to best support persons served and ensure safety and wellness. They are dedicated to taking positive approaches to supporting each other, the persons served, and community members (who may no longer be accessing the organization's services). The staff members are well trained and very invested in making a difference in the local community.
- There is evidence of a strong team spirit and camaraderie among staff members. Staff members are experienced, passionate, and committed to the mission of the organization. They appear to function as a cohesive, person-centred team that is driven to create a meaningful life for the persons served.
- The organization's homes are purpose-built homes located in communities that allow for socialization; community participation; and, if possible, easy access to transportation and medical services. Each home is specifically built or modified to meet the needs and choices of the participants. A thorough matching process occurs prior to admission to the organization's inclusive living program. The goal is to match participants so that they can form new relationships and pursue opportunities with someone who has similar interests. Staff members are reminded that participants do not live in a staff member's workplace; they are serving the participants in their homes.
- The organization's front-facing informational materials are informative and easily understood by all stakeholders. Individual Support Assessments (ISAs) are detailed, person-centred, and based on the needs and choices of each participant. Multiple thorough checklists are in place to ensure quality of care and conformance to the standards.
- Family Home Respite offers a home that is adaptable to meet the needs of persons served who may request or require planned or emergency respite services. The respite team is well trained and flexible to meet the needs of persons served. The team has even created an informative communication tool, Respite Reflections, to ensure that team members and appropriate stakeholders are "in the loop" of respite service activities.
- CLKD has strong family support service navigators who meet each participant where they are and support each participant and their family members to think outside their normal day to create services to match needs and choices. During the COVID-19 pandemic, the family support program developed virtual presentations on its most popular requests. The organization continued to utilize virtual presentations and virtual communication as needed.

- CLKD began providing services coordination at the request of the Ministry. This service assists persons served to navigate and explore resources to meet their specific and often critical needs. Services coordination staff members meet persons served in environments that allow for the most comfortable communication process. Additionally, staff members are members of a community planning table where providers meet to discuss how to best match persons served with services.
- Stakeholders commented, "The organization is a lifesaver," "I am not sure what I would do without Community Living," and "My child is living their best life at Community Living." Persons served stated that they live in homes they choose, have friends that they cultivate, take vacations that they work toward, and have work opportunities that they enjoy.

Opportunities for Quality Improvement

The CARF survey process identifies opportunities for continuous improvement, a core concept of "aspiring to excellence." This section of the report lists the sections of the CARF standards that were applied on the survey, including a description of the business practice area and/or the specific program(s)/service(s) surveyed and a summary of the key areas addressed in that section of the standards.

In this section of the report, a recommendation identifies any standard for which CARF determined that the organization did not meet the minimum requirements to demonstrate full conformance. All recommendations must be addressed in a QIP submitted to CARF.

In addition, consultation may be provided for areas of or specific standards where the surveyor(s) documented suggestions that the organization may consider to improve its business or service delivery practices. Note that consultation may be offered for areas of specific standards that do not have any recommendations. Such consultation does not indicate non-conformance to the standards; it is intended to offer ideas that the organization might find helpful in its ongoing quality improvement efforts. The organization is not required to address consultation.

When CARF surveyors visit an organization, their role is that of independent peer reviewers, and their goal is not only to gather and assess information to determine conformance to the standards, but also to engage in relevant and meaningful consultative dialogue. Not all consultation or suggestions discussed during the survey are noted in this report. The organization is encouraged to review any notes made during the survey and consider the consultation or suggestions that were discussed.

During the process of preparing for a CARF accreditation survey, an organization may conduct a detailed self-assessment and engage in deliberations and discussions within the organization as well as with external stakeholders as it considers ways to implement and use the standards to guide its quality improvement efforts. The organization is encouraged to review these discussions and deliberations as it considers ways to implement innovative changes and further advance its business and service delivery practices.

Section 1. ASPIRE to Excellence®

1.A. Leadership

Description

CARF-accredited organizations identify leadership that embraces the values of accountability and responsibility to the individual organization's stated mission. The leadership demonstrates corporate social responsibility.

Key Areas Addressed

- Leadership structure and responsibilities
- Person-centred philosophy
- Organizational guidance
- Leadership accessibility
- Cultural competency, diversity, and inclusion
- Corporate responsibility
- Organizational fundraising, if applicable

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.B. Governance (Optional)

Description

The governing board should provide effective and ethical governance leadership on behalf of its owners'/stakeholders' interest to ensure that the organization focuses on its purpose and outcomes for persons served, resulting in the organization's long-term success and stability. The board is responsible for ensuring that the organization is managed effectively, efficiently, and ethically by the organization's executive leadership through defined governance accountability mechanisms. These mechanisms include, but are not limited to, an adopted governance framework defined by written governance policies and demonstrated practices; active and timely review of organizational performance and that of the executive leadership; and the demarcation of duties between the board and executive leadership to ensure that organizational strategies, plans, decisions, and actions are delegated to the resource that would best advance the interests and performance of the organization over the long term and manage the organization's inherent risks. The board has additional responsibilities under the domain of public trust, and as such, it understands its corporate responsibility to the organization's employees, providers, suppliers, and the communities it serves.

Key Areas Addressed

- Ethical, active, and accountable governance
- Board selection, orientation, development, leadership, structure, and performance
- Linkage between governance and executive leadership
- Board meetings and committee work
- Executive leadership development, evaluation, and compensation

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.C. Strategic Planning

Description

CARF-accredited organizations establish a foundation for success through strategic planning focused on taking advantage of strengths and opportunities and addressing weaknesses and threats.

Key Areas Addressed

- Environmental considerations
- Strategic plan development, implementation, and periodic review

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.D. Input from Persons Served and Other Stakeholders

Description

CARF-accredited organizations continually focus on the expectations of the persons served and other stakeholders. The standards in this subsection direct the organization's focus to soliciting, collecting, analyzing, and using input from all stakeholders to create services that meet or exceed the expectations of the persons served, the community, and other stakeholders.

Key Areas Addressed

- Collection of input from persons served, personnel, and other stakeholders
- Integration of input into business practices and planning

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.E. Legal Requirements

Description

CARF-accredited organizations comply with all legal and regulatory requirements.

Key Areas Addressed

- Compliance with obligations
- Response to legal action
- Confidentiality and security of records

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.F. Financial Planning and Management

Description

CARF-accredited organizations strive to be financially responsible and solvent, conducting fiscal management in a manner that supports their mission, values, and performance objectives. Fiscal practices adhere to established accounting principles and business practices. Fiscal management covers daily operational cost management and incorporates plans for long-term solvency.

Key Areas Addressed

- Budgets
- Review of financial results and relevant factors
- Fiscal policies and procedures
- Reviews of bills for services and fee structures, if applicable
- Review/audit of financial statements
- Safeguarding funds of persons served, if applicable

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.G. Risk Management

Description

CARF-accredited organizations engage in a coordinated set of activities designed to control threats to their people, property, income, goodwill, and ability to accomplish goals.

Key Areas Addressed

- Risk management plan implementation and periodic review
- Adequate insurance coverage
- Media relations and social media procedures
- Reviews of contract services

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.H. Health and Safety

Description

CARF-accredited organizations maintain healthy, safe, and clean environments that support quality services and minimize risk of harm to persons served, personnel, and other stakeholders.

Key Areas Addressed

- Healthy and safe environment
- Competency-based training on health and safety procedures and practices
- Emergency and evacuation procedures
- Access to first aid and emergency information
- Critical incidents
- Infections and communicable diseases
- Health and safety inspections

Recommendations

1.H.11.b.(6)
1.H.11.b.(7)
1.H.11.b.(8)
1.H.11.b.(9)
1.H.11.b.(10)
Although a written analysis of critical incidents is provided to or conducted by the leadership at least annually, the analysis is limited to the types of incidents that are required to be reported by the funding authority. A written analysis of all critical incidents should be provided to or conducted by the leadership at least annually that addresses causes, trends, areas needing improvement, actions to address the improvements needed, implementation of the actions, whether the actions taken accomplished the intended results, necessary education and training of personnel, prevention of recurrence, internal reporting requirements, and external reporting requirements.

1.I. Workforce Development and Management

Description

CARF-accredited organizations demonstrate that they value their human resources and focus on aligning and linking human resources processes, procedures, and initiatives with the strategic objectives of the organization. Organizational effectiveness depends on the organization's ability to develop and manage the knowledge, skills, abilities, and behavioural expectations of its workforce. The organization describes its workforce, which is often composed of a diverse blend of human resources. Effective workforce development and management promote engagement and organizational sustainability and foster an environment that promotes the provision of services that centre on enhancing the lives of persons served.

Key Areas Addressed

- Composition of workforce
- Ongoing workforce planning
- Verification of backgrounds/credentials/fitness for duty
- Workforce engagement and development
- Performance appraisals
- Succession planning

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.J. Technology

Description

Guided by leadership and a shared vision, CARF-accredited organizations are committed to exploring and, within their resources, acquiring and implementing technology systems and solutions that will support and enhance:

- Business processes and practices.
- Privacy and security of protected information.
- Service delivery.
- Performance management and improvement.
- Satisfaction of persons served, personnel, and other stakeholders.

Key Areas Addressed

- Ongoing assessment of technology and data use, including input from stakeholders
- Technology and system plan implementation and periodic review
- Technology policies and procedures

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.K. Rights of Persons Served

Description

CARF-accredited organizations protect and promote the rights of all persons served. This commitment guides the delivery of services and ongoing interactions with the persons served.

Key Areas Addressed

- Policies that promote rights of persons served
- Communication of rights to persons served
- Formal complaints by persons served

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.L. Accessibility

Description

CARF-accredited organizations promote accessibility and the removal of barriers for the persons served and other stakeholders.

Key Areas Addressed

- Assessment of accessibility needs and identification of barriers
- Accessibility plan implementation and periodic review
- Requests for reasonable accommodations

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

1.M. Performance Measurement and Management

Description

CARF-accredited organizations demonstrate a culture of accountability by developing and implementing performance measurement and management plans that produce information an organization can act on to improve results for the persons served, other stakeholders, and the organization itself.

The foundation for successful performance measurement and management includes:

- Leadership accountability and support.
- Mission-driven measurement.
- A focus on results achieved for the persons served.
- Meaningful engagement of stakeholders.
- An understanding of extenuating and influencing factors that may impact performance.
- A workforce that is knowledgeable about and engaged in performance measurement and management.
- An investment in resources to implement performance measurement and management.
- Measurement and management of business functions to sustain and enhance the organization.

Key Areas Addressed

- Leadership accountability for performance measurement and management
- Identification of gaps and opportunities related to performance measurement and management
- Input from stakeholders
- Performance measurement and management plan
- Identification of objectives and performance indicators for service delivery
- Identification of objectives and performance indicators for priority business functions
- Personnel training on performance measurement and management

Recommendations

1.M.2.d.
CLKD should identify gaps and opportunities in preparation for the development or review of a performance measurement and management plan, including consideration of extenuating and influencing factors that may impact results.

1.M.3.a.(7)
It is recommended that the organization's performance measurement and management plan also address extenuating and influencing factors that may impact results.

1.N. Performance Improvement

Description

CARF-accredited organizations demonstrate a culture of performance improvement through their commitment to proactive and ongoing review, analysis, reflection on their results in both service delivery and business functions, and transparency. The results of performance analysis are used to identify and implement data-driven actions to improve the quality of programs and services and to inform decision making. Performance information that is accurate and understandable to the target audience is shared with persons served, personnel, and other stakeholders in accordance with their interests and needs.

Key Areas Addressed

- Analysis of service delivery performance
- Analysis of business function performance
- Identification of areas needing performance improvement
- Implementation of action plans
- Use of performance information to improve program/service quality and make decisions
- Communication of performance information

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

Section 2. Quality Individualized Services and Supports

Description

For an organization to achieve quality services, the persons served are active participants in the planning, implementation, and ongoing review and revision of the services offered. The organization's commitment to quality and the involvement of the persons served spans the entire time that the persons served are involved with services. The service planning process is individualized, establishing goals and measurable objectives that incorporate the unique strengths, abilities, needs, and preferences of the persons served. Services are responsive to the expectations of persons served and their desired outcomes from services, and are relevant to their maximum participation in the environments of their choice.

2.A. Program/Service Structure

Description

A fundamental responsibility of the organization is to provide a comprehensive program structure. The staffing is designed to maximize opportunities for the persons served to obtain and participate in the services provided.

Key Areas Addressed

- Services are person centred and individualized
- Persons are given information about the organization's purposes and ability to address desired outcomes
- Documented scope of services shared with stakeholders
- Service delivery based on accepted field practices
- Communication for effective service delivery
- Entrance/exit/transition criteria

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

Consultation

- While the organization ensures that its policies are in compliance with funding guidelines and governmental regulations, respite staff members were not fully aware of the location of required documentation of rights restrictions for all participants. Off-site management staff members were able to easily retrieve the information upon request. The organization might consider implementing secure options to have required documentation on site prior to serving a participant in respite.

2.B. Individual-Centred Service Planning, Design, and Delivery

Description

Improvement of the quality of an individual's services/supports requires a focus on the person and/or family served and their identified strengths, abilities, needs, and preferences. The organization's services are designed around the identified needs and desires of the persons served, are responsive to their expectations and desired outcomes from services, and are relevant to their maximum participation in the environments of their choice.

The person served participates in decision making, directing, and planning that affect the person's life. Efforts to include the person served in the direction or delivery of those services/supports are evident.

Key Areas Addressed

- Services are person centred and individualized
- Persons are given information about the organization's purposes and ability to address desired outcomes

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

Consultation

- CLKD might consider providing the persons served and their teams with a copy of the exit summary, as the information contained can be very helpful for transition planning and continuity of care. Although check-ins happen after discharge to other providers, the information is not necessarily provided in a written format for review and follow-up.

2.C. Medication Monitoring and Management

Key Areas Addressed

- Current, complete records of medications used by persons served
- Written procedures for storage and safe handling of medications
- Educational resources and advocacy for persons served in decision making
- Physician review of medication use
- Training and education for persons served regarding medications

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

2.E. Community Services Principle Standards

Description

An organization seeking CARF accreditation in the area of community services assists the persons and/or families served in obtaining access to the resources and services of their choice. The persons and/or families served are included in their communities to the degree they desire. This may be accomplished by direct service provision or linkages to existing opportunities and natural supports in the community.

The organization obtains information from the persons and/or families served regarding resources and services they want or require that will meet their identified needs, and offers an array of services it arranges for or provides. The organization provides the persons and/or families served with information so that they may make informed choices and decisions.

The services and supports are changed as necessary to meet the identified needs of the persons and/or families served and other stakeholders. Service designs address identified individual, family, socioeconomic, and cultural needs.

Expected results from these services may include:

- Increased or maintained inclusion in meaningful community activities.
- Increased or maintained ability to perform activities of daily living.
- Increased self-direction, self-determination, and self-reliance.
- Increased self-esteem.

Key Areas Addressed

- Access to community resources and services
- Enhanced quality of life
- Community inclusion
- Community participation

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

2.F. Service Delivery Using Information and Communication Technologies

Description

Depending on the type of program, a variety of terminology may be used to describe the use of information and communication technologies to deliver services; e.g., telepractice, telehealth, telemental health, telerehabilitation, telespeech, etc. Based on the individual plan for the person served, the use of information and communication technologies allows providers to see, hear, and/or interact with persons served, family/support system members, and other providers in or from remote settings (i.e., the person served and provider are not in the same physical location).

The provision of services via information and communication technologies may:

- Include services such as assessment, individual planning, monitoring, prevention, intervention, team and family conferencing, transition planning, follow-up, supervision, education, consultation, and counselling.
- Involve a variety of providers such as case managers/service coordinators, social workers, psychologists, speech-language pathologists, occupational therapists, physical therapists, physicians, nurses, dieticians, employment specialists, direct support professionals, peer support specialists, rehabilitation engineers, assistive technologists, teachers, and other personnel providing services and/or supports to persons served.
- Encompass settings such as:
  - Hospitals, clinics, professional offices, and other organization-based settings.
  - Schools, work sites, libraries, community centres, and other community settings.
  - Congregate living, individual homes, and other residential settings.
- Be provided via fully virtual platforms.

The use of technology for strictly informational purposes, such as having a website that provides information about the programs and services available or the use of self-directed apps, is not considered providing services via the use of information and communication technologies.

Key Areas Addressed

- Written procedures for the use of information and communication technologies (ICT) in service delivery
- Personnel training on how to deliver services via ICT and the equipment used
- Instruction and training for persons served, family/support system members, and others
- Provision of information related to ICT
- Maintenance of ICT equipment
- Emergency procedures that address unique aspects of service delivery via ICT

Section 4. Community Services

Description

An organization seeking CARF accreditation in the area of community services assists the persons served through an individualized person-centred process to obtain access to the services, supports, and resources of their choice to achieve their desired outcomes. This may be accomplished by direct service provision, linkages to existing generic opportunities and natural supports in the community, or any combination of these. The persons served are included in their communities to the degree they desire.

The organization provides the persons served with information so that they may make informed choices and decisions. Although we use the phrase person served, this may also include family served, as appropriate to the service and the individual.

The services and supports are arranged and changed as necessary to meet the identified desires of the persons served. Service designs address identified individual, family, socioeconomic, and cultural preferences.

Depending on the program's scope of services, expected results from these services/supports may include:

- Increased inclusion in community activities.
- Increased or maintained ability to perform activities of daily living.
- Increased self-direction, self-determination, and self-reliance.
- Self-esteem.
- Housing opportunities.
- Community citizenship.
- Increased independence.
- Meaningful activities.
- Increased employment options.

4.C. Family Services (FS)

Description

Family services are provided to persons served and/or their families, either to enable the person and the family to stay together or to enable persons served to remain involved with their family. Families, including the persons served, are the key decision makers in identifying the services/supports needed and in choosing how those services/supports will be delivered.

Some examples of the quality results desired by the different stakeholders of these services include:

- Resources to support family stability.
- Availability of respite services.
- Emergency response system for family relief.
- Families remaining together.

Key Areas Addressed

- Families enabled to stay together
- Persons served remain involved with their families
- Supports and services established as needed

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

4.E. Host Family/Shared Living Services (HF/SLS)

Description

Host family/shared living services assist a person served to find a shared living situation in which the person is a valued person in the home and has supports as desired to be a participating member of the community. An organization may call these services, which are provided under a contract or written agreement with the host family/shared living provider, a variety of names, such as host family services, shared living services or supports, alternative family living, structured family care giving, family care, or home share.

Getting the person in the right match is a critical component to successful host family/shared living services. The organization begins by exploring with the person served what constitutes quality of life for the individual and identifies applicant host family/shared living providers who are a potential match with the person's identified criteria. The person served makes the final decision of selecting a host family/shared living provider.

Safety, responsibility, and respect between or amongst all people in the home are guiding principles in these services. Persons are supported to have meaningful reciprocal relationships both within the home, where they contribute to decision making, and in the community. The host family/shared living provider helps the person served to develop natural supports and strengthen existing networks. Relationships with the family of origin or extended family are maintained as desired by the person served. The host family/shared living provider supports the emotional, physical, and personal well-being of the person.

Persons develop their personal lifestyle and modify the level of support over time, if they so choose. The host family/shared living provider encourages and supports the person served to make decisions and choices.

The host family/shared living provider does not necessarily have to be a family, as it could be an individual supporting the person. Although the "home" is generally the host family/shared living provider's home or residence, it may also be the home of the person served.

Some examples of the quality results desired by the different stakeholders of these services and supports include:

- Quality of life, as identified by the person served, is enhanced.
- Increased independence.
- Increased community access.
- Persons served choose whom they will live with and where.
- Participation of the persons in the community.
- Community membership.
- Support for personal relationships.
- Increased natural supports.
- Strengthened personal networks.
- Supports accommodate individual needs.
- Persons feel safe.
- Persons feel that the supports they need/want are available.
- Persons decide where they live.
- Persons feel valued.
- Persons have meaningful relationships.
- Persons develop natural supports.
- Persons participate in their community.

Key Areas Addressed

- Appropriate matches of non-family participants with homes
- Contracts that identify roles, responsibilities, needs, and monitoring
- Needed supports
- Community living services in a long-term family-based setting
- Sense of permanency

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

4.F. Respite Services (RS)

Description

Respite services facilitate access to time-limited, temporary relief from the ongoing responsibility of service delivery for the persons served, families, and/or organizations. Respite services may be provided in the home, in the community, or at other sites (as appropriate). An organization providing respite services actively works to ensure the availability of an adequate number of direct service personnel.

Some examples of the quality results desired by the different stakeholders of these services/supports include:

- Services/supports are responsive to the family's needs.
- Services/supports are safe for persons.
- Services/supports accommodate medical needs.

Key Areas Addressed

- Time-limited, temporary relief from service delivery
- Accommodation for family's living routine and needs of person served

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

4.G. Community Integration (COI)

Description

Community integration is designed to help persons to optimize their personal, social, and vocational competency to live successfully in the community. Persons served are active partners in determining the activities they desire to participate in. Therefore, the settings can be informal to reduce barriers between staff members and persons served. An activity centre, a day program, a clubhouse, and a drop-in centre are examples of community integration services. Consumer-run programs are also included.

Community integration provides opportunities for the community participation of the persons served. The organization defines the scope of these services and supports based on the identified needs and desires of the persons served. This may include services for persons who without this option are at risk of receiving services full-time in more restrictive environments with intensive levels of supports such as hospitalization or nursing home care. A person may participate in a variety of community life experiences or interactions that may include, but are not limited to:

- Leisure or recreational activities.
- Communication activities.
- Spiritual activities.
- Cultural activities.
- Pre-vocational experiences.
- Vocational pursuits.
- Volunteerism in the community.
- Educational and training activities.
- Development of living skills.
- Health and wellness promotion.
- Orientation, mobility, and destination training.
- Access and utilization of public transportation.
- Interacting with volunteers from the community in program activities.
- Community collaborations and social connections developed by the program (partnerships with community entities such as senior centres, arts councils, etc.).

Some examples of the quality results desired by the different stakeholders of these services include:

- Community participation.
- Increased independence.
- Increased interdependence.
- Greater quality of life.
- Skill development.
- Slowing of decline associated with aging.
- Volunteer placement.
- Movement to employment.
- Centre-based socialization activities during the day that enable persons to remain in their community residence.
- Activity alternatives to avoid or reduce time spent in more restrictive environments, such as hospitalization or nursing home care.

Key Areas Addressed

- Opportunities for community participation

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

4.H. Community Housing (CH)

Description

Community housing addresses the desires, goals, strengths, abilities, needs, health, safety, and life span issues of the persons served, regardless of the home in which they live and/or the scope, duration, and intensity of the services they receive. The residences in which services/supports are provided are typically owned, rented, leased, or operated directly by the organization, or may be owned, rented, or leased by a third party, such as a governmental entity. Providers exercise control over these sites in terms of having direct or indirect responsibility for the physical conditions of the facility.

Community housing is provided in partnership with individuals. These services/supports are designed to assist the persons served to achieve success in and satisfaction with community living. They may be temporary or long-term in nature. The services/supports are focused on home and community integration and engagement in productive activities. Community housing enhances the independence, dignity, personal choice, and privacy of the persons served. For persons in alcohol and other drug programs, these services/supports are focused on providing sober living environments to increase the likelihood of sobriety and abstinence and to decrease the potential for relapse.

Community housing programs may be referred to as group homes, halfway houses, three-quarter way houses, recovery residences, sober housing, domestic violence or homeless shelters, and safe houses. These programs may be located in rural or urban settings and in houses, apartments, townhouses, or other residential settings owned, rented, leased, or operated by the organization. They may include congregate living facilities and clustered homes/apartments in multiple-unit settings. These residences are often physically integrated into the community, and every effort is made to ensure that they approximate other homes in their neighbourhoods in terms of size and number of individuals.

Community housing may include either or both of the following:

■ Transitional living that provides interim supports and services for persons who are at risk of institutional placement, persons transitioning from institutional settings, or persons who are homeless. Transitional living is typically provided for six to twenty-four months and can be offered in congregate settings that may be larger than residences typically found in the community.
■ Long-term housing that provides stable, supported community living or assists the persons served to obtain and maintain safe, affordable, accessible, and stable housing.

Some examples of the quality results desired by the different stakeholders of these services/supports include:

■ Safe housing.
■ Persons choosing where they live.
■ Persons choosing with whom they will live.
■ Persons having privacy in their homes.
■ Persons increasing independent living skills.
■ Persons having access to the benefits of community living.
■ Persons having the opportunity to receive services in the most integrated setting.
■ Persons' rights to privacy, dignity, respect, and freedom from coercion and restraint are ensured.
■ Persons having the freedom to furnish and decorate their sleeping or living units as they choose.
■ Persons having freedom and support to control their schedules and activities.
■ Settings that are physically accessible to the individuals.

Key Areas Addressed

■ Safe, secure, private location
■ Support to persons as they explore alternatives
■ In-home safety needs
■ Access as desired to community activities
■ Options to make changes in living arrangements
■ System for on-call availability of personnel

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

4.I. Supported Living (SL)

Description

Supported living addresses the desires, goals, strengths, abilities, needs, health, safety, and life span issues of persons usually living in their own homes (apartments, townhouses, or other residential settings). Supported living services are generally long-term in nature but may change in scope, duration, intensity, or location as the needs and preferences of individuals change over time.

Supported living refers to the support services provided to the person served, not the residence in which these services are provided. A sample of people receiving services/supports in these sites will be visited as part of the interview process. Although the residence will generally be owned, rented, or leased by the person who lives there, the organization may occasionally rent or lease an apartment when the person served is unable to do so. Typically, in this situation the organization would co-sign or in other ways guarantee the lease or rental agreement; however, the person served would be identified as the tenant.

Supported living programs may be referred to as supported living services, independent living, supportive living, semi-independent living, and apartment living, and services/supports may include home health aide and personal care attendant services. Typically there would not be more than two or three persons served living in a residence, no house rules or structure would be applied to the living situation by the organization, and persons served can come and go as they please. Service planning often identifies the number of hours and types of support services provided.

Some examples of the quality results desired by the different stakeholders of these services/supports include:

- Persons served achieving choice of housing, either rent or ownership.
- Persons served choosing whom they will live with, if anyone.
- Minimizing individual risks.
- Persons served have access to the benefits of community living.
- Persons served have autonomy and independence in making life choices.

Key Areas Addressed

- Safe, affordable, accessible housing chosen by the individual
- Supports available based on needs and desires
- In-home safety needs
- Living as desired in the community
- Support personnel available based on needs
- Persons have opportunities to access community activities

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

4.J. Services Coordination (SC)

Description

Services coordination programs provide goal-oriented and individualized supports focusing on improved self-sufficiency for the persons served through assessment, planning, linkage, advocacy, coordination, and monitoring activities. Successful services coordination results in community opportunities and increased independence for the persons served. Programs may provide occasional supportive counselling and crisis intervention services, when allowed by regulatory or funding authorities.

Services coordination may be provided by an organization as part of its individual service planning and delivery, by a department or division within the organization that works with individuals who are internal and/or external to the organization, or by an organization with the sole purpose of providing community services coordination. Such programs are typically provided by qualified services coordinators or by case management teams.

Some examples of the quality results desired by the different stakeholders of these services include:

- Access to a variety of services/supports.
- Access to choices of services.
- Individualized services to meet needs.
- Persons achieving goals.
- Persons achieving independence.
- Access to vocational training.
- Persons achieving employment.
- Access to career development.

Key Areas Addressed

- Goal-oriented and systematic process of advocacy
- Formation of linkages with community resources and services
- Coordination of services

Recommendations
